

Relief Office Awaits Plans For PWA Here

Opening of New Program Expected Within Few Days; to Use Planning Commissions.

With the opening of the new Works Progress administration program believed to be only a few days away, the nature of the local set-up remained as much a mystery to local relief and re-employment leaders Monday as ever.

The relief office was notified Monday that no more requisitions for work relief materials should be sent to Chicago. Acceptance of new work relief projects was discontinued last week. The office of Rudolph Stormer, district IERC representative, had had no instructions as to its relations with a district Works Progress office to be set up at Decatur under the leadership of Harold Pogue, a member of the University of Illinois board of trustees.
